Thanks to generosity of Brad ’83 and Karen Radulovacki, the Radulovacki Slavic Studies Fund will be used to support travel for graduate and/or undergraduate students to Slavic countries for the purpose of studying Slavic culture, literature and/or language, with a preference for students studying Russian culture, literature, and/or language.

Brad Radulovacki is a member of the Weinberg College Board of Visitors. The board’s mission is to advance the College’s goals through involvement, advice, philanthropy, and advocacy. The board provides advice for various issues raised by the dean and draw on their areas of expertise and involvement with other institutions.

Brad remains active with Northwestern in various capacities. He is part of the NYC Regional Campaign Committee and was a former Co-Chair of the NY Regional Alumni Board.

Brad and his wife, Karen, have a longstanding research fellowship within NU’s Global Health Program (2007) and recently created scholarships for the Slavic Studies Department (2013) and for the newly created Asian Studies Program (2013).

Brad is a Managing Partner with Pinecroft Capital Advisors, an investment firm focusing on the urgent care medical services sector. He graduated from Northwestern’s College of Arts and Sciences in 1983 where he majored in Psychology, and went on to study at the University of Chicago’s Graduate School of Business, obtaining an MBA in Finance in 1987.
